

Problem Statement:

You and all your friends would get this app, and be able to establish the times you're going to be in X location for the next week (for example, Manhattan, if your friends live around it in a radius), as well as if you are currently online or currently looking for something to do. If you and friends A and B all happen to be in NYC with free time between the hours of 2pm and 6pm, and if you are all within 3 miles of each other, the app will recommend a "cultural experience" such as a museum or gallery for you all to do together during that time. All users can select one experience and recommend it to the others, who will have the option to agree or disagree with your choice.